Guster the dragon lay in the mouth of his cave. He were itching. His back itched and his belly itched. His fingers and his toes itched. Even his eyes and ears and nose itched. It were unbearable.

Guster felt like this every autumn. While the leaves on the trees flushed into their autumn finery, Guster's green summer scales slowly changed to copper. This were a mountain dragon trick which kept them safe from human eyes. Humans couldn't spot no green scales against the grass, red scales against autumn leaves or white scales against snow. Guster thought that them humans must be well stupid.
